

Gambling Techniques and Systems Explained

Thanks for downloading this free report.

The internet is full of people promoting the latest and greatest techniques and systems in gambling to ensure you "Beat the Bookies" this report is here to clear up some of the confusion and explain some of the differences between the most common systems and techniques you will find today.

We discuss a little about the pros and cons of each and what you actually get for your money.

Tipsters:

Firstly you will find tipping services. This is usually a straightforward monthly subscription payment for an email each day containing one or more tipped selections on a horse in one or more of the day's racing meets.

Prices vary from £5 per month to £70+ per month. Any decent tipster is happy to share previous results and will normally calculate their hit rate percentage, sometimes called ROI (Return on Investment).

Tipsters regardless of how good they are will always fluctuate how "on form" they are but using one will usually increase your chances over picking out a horse because it shares a name with your great aunt!

Pros - Definitely increase your wins.

Cons – As long as you are disciplined and have selected a tipster with a proven track record there are not many cons at all. The key is to remain disciplined.

Advice - Newspaper tipsters and other free resources online have an average 30% success rate so you should be looking for higher than that if you are going to part with your money for one.

Staking Systems:

Most professional gamblers use a staking system of some description so that should answer any doubts you may have on if they work!

The beauty of a staking system is you don't need to know much about horse racing, if you can place a bet you are nearly there. The other beauty of a staking system is that losing a bet doesn't impact your overall profit.

Staking systems work by calculating the money you need to put on the next horse to ensure you win back all staked money and a profit. There are a number of variations to the method of selecting the horses to back.

Some suggest always backing the favorite, others say always back 2nd favorite, or follow a tipster and back his selections. These all work quite well as you often hit a winner within 5-6 races and your clever stakes mean when you do hit that winner all staked money is recovered along with a tidy profit.

After the win you start again.

Pros - No horse racing knowledge required. Always profit as previous stakes are recovered plus a profit

Cons - The losing streak, the most common area people fail with this method is a losing streak of either the tipster you are following or the first / second favorite not actually winning. Greed on the punters part is usually to blame for this. Keep the stakes within what you can afford and you'll do well!

Advice - Start small with the stakes and build your bank slowly. Use in conjunction with a good tipster for optimum results.

Matched Betting:

Matched betting systems show you exactly how to exploit the new user sign up bonuses and the ongoing bonuses that the bookies offer.

You use the free bet to bet on a horse (or football match, or anything really) then also lay it (bet it not to win) on another site like Betfair/Matchbook/Smarmets. You will always win as you've backed it to win and to not win.

This may sound complicated especially if you have never heard of Laying but that is why sites exist that take you through it step by step starting with the easiest offers first then working gradually up to more complicated ones. They also provide all the calculators to tell you exactly what stake you need to bet on both the bookies and the exchange based on the odds.

Pros - You can't lose, you are betting on both outcomes win / loss so one will definitely happen. Definitely worth doing there are plenty of offers to go at and you could easily make £1000+ per month from this and it's all risk free!

Cons – The biggest frustration I found when I first started out was the waiting. When you win in the bookies you need to withdraw this money and move it to the exchange, this gets easier as you build up your pot but to help with this I'd recommend a Skrill account. You can deposit and withdraw money fast (same day) rather than waiting 3-5 working days that bookies usually take.

Advice – Highly recommend this, risk free so if you follow the instructions carefully you could earn some serious cash!
